Provisional registration is primarily granted to generate data on the identified parameters of safety and efficacy to enable the holder of provisional registration to fulfil the requirements for consideration of regular registration under section 9(3) of the Act. The norms and conditions followed by the Registration Committee in determining the quantum of import of insecticides to be allowed during the pendency of provisional registration depends upon the quantum of data to be generated on the claimed crops, from the point of view of bioefficacy and residue, on identified parameters of safety, and on storage stability. These norms and conditions are of general applicability in princle and do not vary significantly from company to company and from product to product. In appropriate cases, to meet the emergent pest or disease situation, Registration Committee allows more quantity for import depending upon the risk benefit ratio.
